

ADAM'S RETARDED CAR

A TAFS DIGITAL SHORT
WRITTEN BY _SLIMPSON

INT. TAFS OFFICE - DAY

Adam, the star of The Adam Friedland Show, is on the phone to his mechanic. He paces up and down, looking frustrated.

ADAM

This is unbelievable! It's been months and months of this ... shit. I'm a successful touring comedian. I need a car to drive around and do comedy in. And, what? You're saying there's nothing to be done? This isn't...you know, this is not... This is not good. It's not good that you're telling me these things. And now?

Nick, Adam's producer, walks into the office. Nick looks like shit, but for some reason he is pleased with himself.

NICK

Hey Adam, check out my new boots.

With a hammed up movement, Nick lifts his foot onto a nearby chair.

INSERT: a garish new pair of crocodile skinned boots, with an impossibly pointed toe with what looks like a spear head jutting out of it.

Nick flashes a shit eating grin, nods his head knowingly: these are the coolest fucking boots anyone has ever fucking seen in the world.

Adam looks at the boots confused, then to his friend. He put his hand over the mouthpiece of the phone.

ADAM

Those look really weird... What's with the toe?

NICK

They've been deliberately sharpened to move along beggars and street folk - I bought them off a security guard.

ADAM

(noting the ludicrously tapered toe; putting on the annoying smug self satisfying air he is known for)
[nodding head]

They look like they could well might pinch.

NICK

Oh they'll pinch alright... pinch yo ass!

But in all seriousness, I'm very pleased with my new boots.

I think they may bring out a facet of my personality we've yet to see.

Plus, you know....

Nick delicately prods the chair with the toe jabber.

NICK

Good for killing rats.

Adam looks at his friend, shakes his head: this strange friend the universe has bound me to - would I have it any other way? Doubtful, he thinks.... Then back to the matter at hand.

ADAM

Nick, I really don't have time for this: apparently my car... My car, Nick...

There's nothing to be done.... They're sending it back here today.

Unfixed.

Nick nods his head knowingly.

NICK

I always said that car was retarded.

The SOUND of a door bell.

Adam takes his hands from over the phone and speaks down the phone line.

ADAM

What's that? Oh okay, thanks, bye.

(to Nick)

That's it at the door now.

Adam leaves the room to answer the door. Nick lifts his boot off the chair and follows.

INT. DOOR - DAY

Adam opens the door. From OFFSCREEN some new york courier.

COURIER (o.s)

Mrs. Adam Friedland?

ADAM

(sternly)

I am he.

From outside the door a hand thrusts a CLIPBOARD at Adam's chest.

COURIER

Sign here please.

Adams signs the clipboard's paper, hands it back. Nick enters eating an apple or some shit.

The SOUND of the mechanically dropping off of a package that darkens the doorway ominously.

COURIER (o.s.)

See ya.

The courier leaves.

Adam stares at the package woefully. Nick, looking up from his apple, looks at the package with ambivalence.

NICK

Is this your car?

Adam nods his head despairingly.

INSERT: standing in the doorway is friend of the show [insert name here] dressed in a CARDBOARD CAR COSTUME (google search: cardboard car costume) and a PLASTIC ARMY HAT (no shoes, bar legged maybe) with a gormless look on their face.

CAR

[the car can just improv some retarded lines here or else]

Derp / car go broom / hello Adam.

Nick and Adam continue to look at the retarded car.

ADAM

Unfortunately, yes Nick, this is my car.

NICK

... It looks like a piece of shit.

Adams put his head in his hands. Nick stands there in his new boots feeling pretty good about things, all things considered. The retarded car stands staring off into the distance or doing something else retarded like that.

... TO BE CONTINUED?

